

The Owingsville Outlook.

VOL. XIX.

OWINGSVILLE, KENTUCKY, THURSDAY, APRIL 14, 1898.

NO. 39.

Oliver gave to the world the chilled plow.

Easter Sunday was bright and pleasant until towards evening.

The Oliver still leads, others follow. Ramsey & Co.

Silas Corbin bought of Samuel Latham a yearling bull for $37.50.

The talk about other chilled plows only advertises the Oliver.

The reported case of small-pox at Mt. Sterling proved to be chicken-pox.

The verdict of the people is "The Oliver is good enough for me."

I have a fine, 4-year old, 16 1/2 hand, black Jack I wish to farm.

J. B. GOODPASTER.

All sizes of Vulcan Plow points, at J. A. Ramsey & Co's.

Pneumonia is remarkably prevalent among children throughout the county.

We have made you happy with the Oliver; now you need the Brown Double Shovel plow. Ramsey & Co.

The only real bargains to be found in Owingsville are at Mrs. Estill's.

John E. Fleming bought of G. W. McKinean a 3-yr.-old bay horse for $85.

You can rely on everything that you buy from Mrs. Estill being the latest style.

The "genuine Brown" is at the head of the Double Shovel Plow family. Try one.

Do not forget that Mrs. Estill will sell you the prettiest hat for less money than any one in town.

Why not plant your corn with a Drill? You can increase the yield 25 per cent. Ramsey & Co.

Have you seen those new Wooden Dress Goods at Mrs. Estill's? They are beauties and the latest things out.

The "Front Rank" is now the most popular Corn Drill on the market. Ramsey & Co. have them.

All the new and desirable styles in Millinery at about 25 per cent. less than you can buy them elsewhere.

Mrs. D. S. ESTILL.

T. S. Shront is the only undertaker in the town doing business who has his Diploma for Embalming the Dead. Satisfaction guaranteed or no charge.

H. A. Oursler resigned the office of Coroner Monday, and Judge Ramsey appointed W. D. Bailey, of South Sherburne precinct, to succeed him.

If you will stop in at Ramsey's you will find a large stock of 16, 18 and 20 foot hand-made chisel lines cheaper than ever sold in Owingsville.

Elder Geo. E. Boats will preach the funeral of Richard Collier at Fairview on the fourth Sunday in April.

Ramsey & Co. handle "Tiger" Harrows and Corn Drills, known as the best.

The I. N. Anderson tract of land, west of Owingsville, was purchased Monday by Will E. Estill at a cost of about $2,160, including house and barns.

Brown Double Shovel plows and five-tooth Cultivators are the best. J. A. Ramsey & Co.

Ladies, you can go to Mrs. Estill's and get a complete outfit from a kerchief to an elegant dress and hat. She keeps everything that ladies wear.

A lady relative in town of Mrs. W. B. Henry desires us to state that it was a mistake in the Stepstone items saying Mrs. Henry was operated on for a floating tumor. Her illness was of a different nature.

The Best.—The Oliver is the only plow made that has a point in one piece. When you put on a point you have the cutter; you don't have to put on a thin-plate to complete the cutter; thus leaving a crack to catch trash.

I will sell you goods cheaper than anyone and give you a nice Gingham or Calico dress for every $5 cash purchase. Mrs. ESTILL.

Dr. G. W. Conner informs us that he has the promise of some mares from a distate to make a J. S. Brown. To see the horse will insure your patronage.

We are now offering for cash Galvanized Barbed Wire at $2.25; Galvanized Smooth Wire, No. 9, cash, $1.80. Other sizes smooth wire in proportion for cash.

JOHN A. RAMSEY & CO.

RECENT WINTER'S DAMAGE.—The late frosts appear to have killed the fruit bloom that was entirely out, but that in the bud may survive and make a partial crop. On Sunday and the bright warm days since the bees have been swarming among the blooms, which is an indication that a part is all right yet.

A few days after the frosts the farmers thought their tobacco plants would survive all right, but it is noticed that many of them are sowing new beds, which is a wise precaution.

The young clover and oats were not particularly injured.

You can raise 25 per cent. more corn on every acre planted by using a "Front Rank" Corn Drill. Call at Ramsey & Co's and see them.

The late A. D. Ruff's friend E. H. P. Palmer, aged 38, died of pneumonia at Richmond last week. He was a native of Birmingham, England.

Ramsey & Co. have now on hand the largest, best selected and cheapest stock of Plow and Wagon Gear, ever in this market and they are selling them.

TOBACCO SALES.—J. M. Richart's purchases: near Forge Mill, John Vice's at $c.

Purchases of Cud Suedgar, of Wyoming; near Forge Mill, crop of R. J. Ferguson and John Vice at $c; crop of James Lyons and John Vice at $c.

T. S. Shront has on hand a complete line of new Buggies and Phaetons which he will trade you for an old one or for a horse or mule. Prices very low for new buggies for cash or trade.

Elder T. S. Tinsley will preach at Owingsville next Sunday at 3 o'clock p. m. at White Oak Church the second Sunday in May at 3 o'clock p. m. He had seven calls for meetings Monday. He will hold a meeting at Farmers' next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

CORN MILL.—I have bought Clark Crouch's corn mill in town. Regular grinding days are Friday and Saturday. Meal exchanged for corn at any time my customers bring it.

S. P. ATCHISON.

FINE HORSES SOLD.—Samuel Estill, of near Grange City, recently sold a gelding for $125, and E. D. Anderson one of same for $150, to J. B. Day, of Fleming Co. These fine horses were the progeny of Phillips & Anderson's horse Carlsie, No. 689, which is now at John Ragan's, Mt. Sterling, and will make the season there.

Buy a "Front Rank" Corn Drill, a Tiger Disc Harrow, an Aeneas Pulverizing Harrow, and you will raise more corn per acre than you have ever done in your life.

JOHN A. RAMSEY & CO.

Y. M. C. A. ADDRESS.—Dr. J. A. Stucky, of Lexington, former President of the State Board of the Y. M. C. A. and at present a member of the State Executive Board, delivered an address to men only on Sunday at the Methodist Church on the subject "The Old Homestead."

At night his address was on the subject "The Old Kentucky Home," to a mixed audience. The illustrations and songs were said to be very appropriate to the subjects. The audience were very much affected. Men and boys who never before displayed emotion on such occasions were much wrought up and tears flowed freely. Dr. Stucky made a deep impression and his admirers will hail his next visit with pleasure.

This is to certify that I worked the horse J. S. Brown a few weeks last season and in that short time he showed a 2:20 gait. Barring accidents he will beat a 2:20 gait this season.

March 29th, 1898.

GEORGE W. BASCOM.

GUDGELL-MACY WEDDING.—The marriage of Mr. Howard C. Gudgell and Miss Sude Maury was to take place on Tuesday, April 12th, and as it would be too late to get a direct report of the ceremony for this week's issue of The Outlook we are compelled to confine our mention to the intended programme, as reported to us. The wedding was to be a quiet one, without any bridesmaids or groomsmen, the ceremony to be performed by Rev. M. M. Benton at the Advent Episcopal Church in Louisville. The bride couple will return to Owingsville Saturday. No formal reception will be made.

The bride is the second youngest daughter of Dr. Joseph F. Maury, deceased. Her parents dying while she was a young child, she was reared by her cousin, Mrs. John T. Kimbrough. She is a young lady of much refinement and is well accomplished. Since her advent into society she has been one of the most popular young ladies in social circles and is admired and esteemed by all who know her.

Howard C. Gudgell is one of Owingsville's most popular young men. He is the youngest child of Reuben Gudgell, the prominent attorney, and has for some years been associated with his father in the large law practice of R. Gudgell & Son. Howard is a cheery, big-hearted young man and one whose host of friends will delight to see prosper and climb the ladder to popularity and fame. The success of his suit in winning the heart and hand of his fair and charming bride pleases his friends beyond measure, and they hope a similar success may attend him through life. To him and his happy bride The Outlook tenders its felicitations and hopes life may be to them "one grand, sweet song."

J. W. Cook's DEATH.—J. W. Cook died at his home at Salt Lick Monday night, April 11th, at 8:15 o'clock. Mr. Cook had long been ill and suffered greatly; hence death came as a blessed relief.

The funeral occurred at 4 o'clock p. m. April 12th. Elder T. S. Tinsley conducted the services at the interment, which took place in the Owingsville Cemetery.

Deceased was born Dec. 23d, 1819. It is believed that he was a native of Bourbon county. He has carried on business for several years past along the line of the C. & O. rail road. He was a fine business man and accumulated a fair competency. He was twice married, and two sons survive of the first union. One son is about grown and is attending school in Missouri. The other son is younger. Mr. Cook was a few years ago married Miss Dora Gault, of this town, his second wife. She survives him. No children were born to them.

Mr. Cook stood high in the regard of each community in which he lived and was also well known and highly esteemed in this town. His devoted wife has the profound sympathy of all in her bereavement.

TOBACCO REPORT.—EXPRESSLY FOR THE OUTLOOK BY J. S. PHILLIPS & CO., PLANTERS WAREHOUSE.—Louisville, April 13, 1898.—Receipts and sales this week show a decided falling off, and are smaller than they have been any week since January of this year. The market on Tuesday and Wednesday was dull and irregular; prices on the medium grades that sold from $11 to $14 were very unsatisfactory to sellers, and rejections were very liberal in these kinds. On Thursday and Friday the bidding was decidedly more animated; prices more satisfactory to sellers. All the indications point to a very light business for the remainder of this month, and we see no reason why prices should not go back to where they were the early part of March. The percentage of rejections this week was 31 per cent. This clearly indicates that holders are not willing to take present prices.

In Old Kentucky the offerings were small and largely confined to the common, faked smokers without color. These kinds showed a little more life than last week, but are still much below the prices that ruled for them during February. The colored smokers selling below $7.50 met with fair competition. The few bids, of common to medium old that appeared in good condition sold fairly well. Very little good Old Leaf offered, and the demand for it at prices above $13 was limited.

WAR NOT FUN.—Olympia, Ky.—To THE PEOPLE OF BATH: I have gone through four years of war and know what it is. I am satisfied that the ones that are egging it on weren't in the battles of Shiloh, Lookout Mountain, Resaca, and others, as I was. I today stand firmly with McKinley to keep it down as long as it is going, but I say when it has to come Mack will be as willing as any man in Congress, although they appear so keen for it. When I rolled up my flag in the spring of Sixty-five little did I believe that I should see his unrolled again for the purpose of coming out on the battlefield. I am for peace with all nations under fair and honest compromises. But that is all. If our flag or our people are threatened I stand by them. I am by them in my young days. I stood by my country in need. Today I stand to the President of these United States and my flag; but still, I am not as able as I was in '61. But if it has to come I am as willing. Boys, it is a heap easier to say this on paper than it is to face the mouth of a cannon. When I talk to an old soldier he prays that this thing can be settled with-out any bloodshed, as it takes the best blood and the best men on earth. What we may now regard as a claim, if it has to come and does come, it is shall have the world to fight and we can prepare ourselves for the biggest thing that has ever been in history.

J. K. JACKSON.

COURT DAY.—Owing to Sunday's rain farmers were mostly at leisure and came to town in large numbers Monday. However, not much attention was given to the stock trade, and that business was inactive. Much discussion was given to the threatened war between the United States and Spain.

Only about 75 cattle were offered and they were not all sold, prices not being so strong as on recent Court days. A few sows and some shoats sold at low prices because of the prevalence of hog cholera in some localities. There was a big improvement in the prices of horses. Some five or six stallions were on exhibition. Some were stylish and showed up well.

Nearly all the merchants were interviewed in regard to trade. In the majority of instances business was reported to have been fair. Some had a largely satisfactory trade, as they speak for themselves in the following:—

Eugene Minihan—"Biggest day I have had in a long time. All hands busy from early in the morning till late in the afternoon."

S. P. Atchison—"I have done well. Better than last Court day."

John A. Ramsey & Co.—"Had all we could do. All of us worked down."

Vic Bloomfield & Co.—"The best day we have had in a long time." Joseph Bloomfield, manager, was counting his cash. It looked to the reporter more like a bank pile than the day's sales of a dry-goods store.

Mrs. D. S. Estill—"The biggest Court day I have ever had since I have been in business, and the beauty of it all is I got the cash for my goods."

PERSONAL.

Reuben Gudgell went to Carlisle Friday on law business.

Albion Shront, of Prickly Ash, visited the Knobs Sunday.

The R. R. Iron Co. are shipping some 10 to 12 cars of ore daily; from 20 to 21 tons.

There was quite a crowd at the Knobs Sunday; several from Sharpshooting and vicinity.

Very few cattle for the market this week; less than I have ever noticed for an April Court.

There has been but very little farming done for several days. There have been a few potatoes planted.

The Democratic party promises to do something if it is only given a chance. Seems to me I have heard that somewhere before.

There is considerable sickness in this vicinity. Sam Snelling has two children very sick with pneumonia. Wm. Hunt has been poorly, but is some better. J. M. Collier and wife have a gripe.

The chicken thieves are getting in their work. Charley Warren lost 10 last week. There was some one at Turner Hunt's chicken house one night last week, but got no chickens, owing to the door being locked and the dog snarled him away. He dropped a stub of a cigar at the door.

There seems to be a growing disposition on the part of some that where any one has more than he needs it is public property and must be appropriated to their own use and benefit. I believe in charity, but object to dispensing it in that way to a set of rascals who have no conception of an honest day's work and an honest motive.

JUST THE SAME.

You hate to be bought and you hate to be sold.

You hate to be forced to pay $100 in gold.

You hate the hard times, but you are bound to die game.

You hate 'em, but you vote for 'em just the same.

You hate politicians that swagger and rant.

You hate a good deal of the old party cant.

You hate a large share of the ticket that way by day.

You hate to be trampled in a financial way.

You hate great frauds going on day by day.

You curse in your soul the corruption you blame.

You curse it but vote for it just the same.

You long for good laws and prosperous times.

And you want to see hoodlums sent up for their crimes.

Kentucky Crop Report.

Condition of Crops and Live Stock April 1, 1898.

For the April Crop Report replies were received from 168 correspondents, representing 105 counties.

WHEAT.

The wheat crop averages, for all sections of the State, 101, being an improvement of 10 points during the month of March. On April 1, 1897, the condition was 94. Considering the crop by the three subdivisions, western, central and southeastern, we find the highest average condition in the central section, 103. In the western section the condition is 102, while the few counties reporting from the southeastern section show an average of 98. On March 1 the condition by sections was: Western 93; central 94; no estimate being given for the southeastern.

Remarks of correspondents show practical universal satisfaction with the prospect, an occasional complaint of too much rain being the only exception.

GRAIN.

The estimated average of oats compared with the average of 1897 is 91 per cent. of the average of that year. It is largest in the western section, 96, and smallest in the central section, 84. In the southeastern section it is 92 per cent. of 1897 average.

Much of the crop was sown quite early and this is growing nicely. Rain has of late greatly interfered with the work of sowing and the crop will, on this account, be divided into two clearly defined parts, the very early and the very late.

TOBACCO.

Every indication points to a largely increased acreage of tobacco both in barley and dark districts. Plant beds show an excellent condition, especially in the western section (dark tobacco), there the condition, as compared with normal, is 108. In the central section (barley) the condition is 103, and the southeastern section (principally barley) the condition is 101.

SHEEP AND SPRING LAMBS.

The revival of the industry of sheep raising does not, so far, appear to be manifesting itself in an increased production of spring lambs; the number as compared with 1897 being but 92 per cent. of the production of that year. The central section leads with a production of 95 per cent., as compared with 1897. In the western section the number is 92 per cent.; while in the southeastern section the number is but 88 per cent.

The percentage of loss by dogs during the past year is 6 per cent. for the State. The western section suffered the greatest loss, 7 per cent. The central section lost 5 per cent., and the southeastern section 6 per cent.

PASTURES.

Pastures are in a very advanced stage for the season, and continuance of present conditions will enable farmers to put stock to graze three weeks in advance of the average date.

FRUIT PROSPECTS.

April 1 finds the fruit prospect unusually bright. Apples, peaches, pears, cherries, grapes and strawberries all promise full crops at present, but danger lies thick in the path on account of the unusual advancement of the buds. In the western section the condition of the various fruits are: Apples, 98; peaches, 99; pears, 101; cherries, 99; grapes, 98, and strawberries, 93. In the central section the conditions are: Apples, 99; peaches, 101; pears, 100; cherries, 99; grapes, 96, and strawberries, 75. In the southeastern section the conditions are: Apples, 100; peaches, 102; pears, 100; cherries, 95; grapes, 93, and strawberries, 90.

LUCAS MOORE, Commissioner of Agriculture.

The British-Egyptian force won a battle at Athara on the Upper Nile against Mahomud. Pasha's army of Dervishes, numbering 16,000. The Dervishes left 2,000 dead on the field, including many important officers. The shrapnel shells slaughtered them even in the rifle-pits and intrenchments until they were literally full of dead bodies. It is believed that 3,000 Dervishes were killed. The British force numbered 13,000. Their loss was comparatively slight. The Dervishes were poor workmen.

Latest War News.

Tuesday's papers brought the text of the President's message to Congress regarding the Cuban question. It is in this issue of THE OUTLOOK.

The message is said to be a great disappointment to the majority of Congress, though the House is disposed to follow the President, while the Senate threatens to take the matter in its own hands. Such a course would probably result in a dead lock, and the President would still lead.

The Spanish populace are wild for war. A mob started in Madrid, but was dispersed.

What the outcome will be only time will tell.

Spain is concentrating a large fleet at the Canary Islands and is sending a large force of soldiers there, intending that as a base of operations, it is said.

War a New Art Now.

According to army experts, the art of war on the battlefield is now largely a matter of theory and experiment, owing to the improvements in weapons and ammunition since the last war between great nations. Nothing short of actual experience will develop the style of tactics most effective. Artillery of the approved modern kind is immeasurably superior to either the old smooth-bore weapon or the muzzle-loading rifled cannon. Rapid-firing, breech-loading guns can pose field batteries now. Their range and accuracy are a matter of scientific determination. Their destructiveness is fearful. Temporary fortifications and field entrenchments of the old style are of less protection now against the solid shells or shrapnel shells. Artillery will, as formerly, play an important part in battle.

In small armies the improvement is proportionately greater. The army rifles of most large nations now are repeating weapons of the accuracy of a sporting arm and with a range of two miles or more. Sharpshooting will be a particular feature of battles, and marksmanship a prime qualification of the efficient private soldier. Small calibers are favored,—30 (three tenths) of an inch in diameter, or less. The United States standard army rifle is of 30 caliber. The bullet is a lead-coated, oval-pointed steel cylinder weighing 220 grains, or a little over a half ounce avoirdupois. The powder charge is 40 grains of black or its equivalent in smokeless powder. The Government has recently contracted for these cartridges at $18.60 per thousand. The velocity and penetration are immense, and a shot through the human body, bones and all, would be a straight continuation of the line of the bullet's flight. Perhaps at short range it would pass through the bodies of a dozen men ranged in a row one behind the other. The effect on the fleshy tissues around the wound is fearful also, tearing and disintegrating them for some inches.

The range, the accuracy, and the repeating feature of these rifles render the old form of bayonet or cavalry charge practically obsolete. Infantry in line of battle, with reasonably good marksmanship, using smokeless powder, could mow down a bayonet charge or a cavalry charge in almost a leisurely way. Hence, according to experts, actual experience must yet determine the style of tactics necessary to meet the modern conditions. It is said that battles now must largely depend on the squad officer and on the individual soldier's general efficiency, thus returning somewhat to the semi-independent style of fighting employed by the Indians and learned from them and adopted by the white Indian fighters of the West in the old days.

The veterans of the Civil War would find the most of his experience on the battlefield of no value now. He would have to learn an entirely new set of tricks. Then a fence-rail, a chunk or a little pile of dirt was accounted a fair protection against the leader's bullets from the clumsy, kicking old musket that seldom hit what it was aimed at. Such cover now would be almost as slight as a thickness of paper against the steel messengers of death fired from a weapon as accurate as the old-fashioned squirrel rifle and with a range as far as a man could be distinctly seen. The machine gun is another formidable weapon, that will figure importantly on the battlefield. The Federals at Gettysburg at Pickett's famous charge could have swept away the whole rebel line with Gatling or Maxim guns. Experts with these guns distributed along a battle line would make almost any sort of charge in the old-fashioned way suicidal to the opposing line. The machine gun, firing dynamite, is another sort of weapon that may prove to be the most destructive of all artillery. They are a new invention. The Cuban insurgents have some of them, though little has been heard of them. They are necessarily yet of short range, owing to the danger of exploding the charge in the weapon. All these improvements induce in military authorities the conviction that battles in the field will take largely of the nature of sieges, operations and strategy skill will determine the issue, rather than dash and brilliancy as in former times.

Modern war means something infinitely more terrible than war during the conflict between the States. As an instance, there is a mortar battery on Sandy Hook, tending the approaches to New York City. This battery contains sixty 12-inch rifled mortars. The ocean within range of the battery is laid off in imaginary squares and the battery trained on some one of these squares. An officer, in an armored turret remote from the battery, with a scientific rangefinder locates a hostile fleet on the square and instantly fires by electric connection the whole battery, each gun shooting an explosive shell weighing half a ton. Thus a dead weight could be caught in a shower of 60,000 pounds of exploding metal each discharge. Each discharge of the battery costs $50,000; one hour's active firing, $1,000,000. It is thought that no ship could last through such a shower of missiles. This battery is so hidden in deep sand pits and surrounded by natural scenery that it is difficult for its own officers to locate it from the sea.

The rush to the Klondike has been neglected in the newspapers here, owing to the war news overshadowing all else. However, news came of the recent destruction on the Chilkoot trail of thirty to fifty people by an avalanche of snow. The general condition of affairs in the Alaska and Klondike country is reported to be fearful, and will probably continue so until progress and progress are made comparatively easy by the construction of railroads. It is questionable that discovery will for at least a year or two more add anything to the aggregate wealth of the world. The percentage of good strikes is small, and the expenses incurred by the mining horde are enormous in the aggregate. The loss of life among the argonauts is probably greater in proportion than of any army in active war.

SPAIN—"Senor Samuel, have an armistice?"
Uncle Sam—"Gosh! I've chewed the rag till my jaws ache. Maybe I'd better fill up on musky vittles like armistices for awhile."

Spain—"Insurgents, have an armistice? Very fine. Puffed from the vine just before the rainy season."

Insurgents—"No, and no thanks. We can't abide armistices without independence sauce, and this has none."

Spain (aside)—"Can't fool the Cubans; they've got Spanish brains. That old pig of a Yankee gezer is really the dead-endiest thing this side of China."

The Spanish ambassadors of five of the great powers of Europe went to talk peace to the Spanish Government last Thursday and were politely told that Spain had already gone to the limit in that direction. The American representatives of the six greatest European powers called on President McKinley the same day in the interest of peace. He said in effect that the indefinite prolongation of the Cuban situation is ineffectual. Fight or back down is the only outcome. President McKinley will not back down, and the Spanish government dare not. Fight it must be. At least that is the way it looked when this was written.

Just when excitement and eager anticipation were wrought up to the highest pitch Wednesday of last week notice came to Congress that President McKinley will at least Monday of this week address Congress. General Lee couldn't get the Americans in Cuba out of that country before the end of the week, and the character of the message would jeopardize their lives. Then it became known that influences were at work on Spain and concessions in the interest of peace would be made by that nation.

HORATIO S. RUBENS, a U. S. citizen, counsel of the Cuban Junta in New York, made a dash to kick all the fat in the fire Wednesday last week when the message didn't go to Congress. It was a most discreet break, and the only one yet made on the Cuban side. He claimed to have inside information that new negotiations were entered upon between Spain and the United States by which the latter is to secure Cuban acceptance of autonomy.

Rubens says if the United States interferes without recognizing Cuban independence the insurgents will fight the United States.

Some evidence of the manner in which consumers are imposed on was furnished by search on warrants of six big Cincinnati liquor establishments for spurious labels, some 5,000 of which were found, embracing those of some of the most famous wine and liquor establishments in Europe, and some thousands of dollars' worth of spurious stuff bearing such labels.

The United States has recently added to the Navy by purchase two 3,500-ton cruisers, one 1,800-ton cruiser, and two fast torpedo boats, all designed originally for war ships; also, four cruisers of over 4,500 tons each, which will be armed for commerce destroyers; three big fast yachts, for torpedo boat destroyers; nine small fast yachts, for torpedo boats; besides tugs, colliers, transports, etc., making a total of 19 new vessels, of some 45,000 tons displacement.

Spain begged the great powers to plead with her for an armistice of a sort that neither the insurgents nor the United States want. She jumped at the chance to comply with the request made by her request and now points with Spanish pride to a concession granted the powers, but would have been scorned if the United States had made it. Spain's pride and subterfuges are really pitiful and compassion for her weakness will assert itself amidst all of her bragadoes.

Gen. Miles desire for a bird of paradise uniform for officers called out adverse comment. His latest idea in the uniform line for private soldiers is a dress of dull brown canvas that is inconspicuous in battle and cool in warm weather, though serviceable in cold weather, a style of dress that is much in favor with sporting sportsmen. The idea seems to be a good one. Ten thousand uniforms of that kind have been ordered.

CONSIDERABLE LEE, and many other Americans, including Major Clara Barton of the Red Cross Society, left Havana for the United States Saturday evening at six o'clock. Gen. Lee called to say good bye to Gen. Blanco, but Blanco was "too busy" to see Gen. Lee. About all the consuls and other Americans have left Cuba and Porto Rico. The Minister and consuls in Spain are given discretion to leave or not.

The United States asked Spain to declare an armistice. Spain refused, but at the last moment reconsidered and is willing. The Cubans don't want an armistice unless independence is the guaranteed end. Spain will have to ask the insurgents for an armistice. The insurgents want the advantage of hostilities during the unhealthy rainy season.

Spain has sent the two first-class armored cruisers Maria Teresa and Cristobal Colon to augment the already formidable torpedo flotilla at the Cape Verde Islands ready to start to America. If that fleet effects a junction with the Vizeya and Oquenda at Porto Rico the United States will have to make up her strongest squadron to meet it in case of war.

ONE of the first war measures to increase the revenue will be an increased tax on beer and all forms of manufactured tobacco. Then will come bank checks, drafts, deeds, mortgages, proprietary medicines and similar goods. The tax on liquor can not be raised, because an increased tax would provide less revenue than the present one, owing to decreased consumption.

Born the United States and Spain are rushing preparations as if war was a foregone conclusion. If Spain was as expert in war as she is in diplomacy, the United States would cut a rather sorry figure. Spain squeals and rackets like she was getting hurt, but she likes the Administration and must be really laughing in her sleeve.

DIPLOMACY has involved the Cuban question in seemingly incredible confusion, and the Cuban threat to fight Uncle Sam looks like the confusion worse confounded. A three-cornered fight, each against the other two, would be about the queerest spectacle in all the world. It would be what the boys call "a beauty."

BARON ROTHSCHILDS, the Parisian head of the famous family of bankers, is reported to have said that he will present a warship to Spain, who has his "dearest love and sympathy" to the Hebrew race but reason to love Spain, and the Baron may be playing it deep and devilishly.

The President asks for power to make peace in Cuba. He doesn't want either recognition of independence or belligerent rights on the part of the Cubans. If Congress acquiesces and grants him the power without stipulations it will be interesting to see the insurgent attitude.

The Mt. Sterling Gazette has joined the rapidly increasing ranks of Kentucky semi-weekly country newspapers. The Outlook admires the pluck of its progressive rural contemporaries, but is content to get no richer but by means of the time-honored weekly issue.

"Blessed are the peacemakers," thought they usually have a hard row to hoe. In quality, a fully thought, if Rubens speaks by authority, the Cubans will fight Uncle Sam if he isn't mighty careful how he interferes in their affairs. This is the tragic and comic blended on life's stage.

LARGE numbers of Indians of different tribes are reported to be eager to enlist and raise Spanish flags. They have a large hereditary nagged vengeance to glut on the white race, and Spanish scalps look like the other white scalps to them.

War like pugilism seems to have degenerated to a mere matter of words. If this thing keeps up between Spain and the United States one or the other nation is liable to get its feelings hurt.

France, Austria Hungary and Italy are in sympathy with Spain; Germany, too, though a pretense of neutrality is made. Russia doesn't care a snap for either side. Great Britain really sympathizes with the United States. All yet profess neutrality in the event of war. There may be something known by the Administration that causes the dilatory policy; some fear of a European coalition.

A New York financier called in to consultation by the Administration gave the assurance that the national metropolis alone would on brief notice raise a war loan of $300,000,000 at the Government's own terms, and the Government's few days a half billion dollars could be raised.

A PARANOID drug clerk in town frequently thumbs the index of his Dispensary for the word "Cantharis" in order to refer to the chapter and delight his soul with the sub-head "The Spanish Fly." It is so suggestive of the news headlines that he is eagerly anticipating.

Whether or not the Cubans' independence is officially recognized by the United States they proved their independent character by threatening to fight Uncle Sam if he invades the island to stop the war without declaring Cuba's independence.

CHERAMING grows steadily in favor among prominent people over earth burial. The body of Miss Frances Willard, the late chief of the W. T. U. movement, was cremated last week at Chicago, in accordance with her expressed wishes during life.

The public is fed by the newspapers so as to take on its information in a streak of war. Next one day, a streak of peace the next. So there is no yaller streak among them it'll be all right in the end.

Ohio has appropriated $1,000,000 for a war fund. The Buckeye State will strive hard to be first in war—and to take a first mortgage on the offices, and thus continue the feud among the Presidents.

The Duke of Veragua, Christopher Columbus' descendant who was on exhibition at the Columbian Fair, has contributed a bull light in aid of Spain's war preparations. Now let the war go on.

OVER $13,000,000 in gold have been imported into the United States on the recent movement. There was never such a large stock of gold in the country.

Spain is trying hard to secure an injunction in the International Court against Uncle Sam's intervention. Uncle Sam denies that Court's jurisdiction.

The peace folks are congratulating themselves over the President's message. Stocks took a little rise after its contents were known.

"NAVY" is the magic word for the newsmongers to conjure with now. Even navy beans have an exceptional relish.

Spain could stand time from old Procrastination himself.

From the amount of eggs our merchants are shipping the hens must be getting right down to business.

We will ask the West End correspondent why it is that he gathers his news from the East Side of the county.

After reading THE OUTLOOK we kindly hand it over to or mail it to a friend. When you get hold of a good thing push it along.

The postmasters say THE OUTLOOK is getting to be quite a popular paper in this vicinity and is giving the best of satisfaction.

Married, by Rev. Wes Blevins, Mr. Will Epperson to Miss Joannie, the pretty and popular daughter of Will Moore. May the sunlight of happiness ever illumine their pathway.

He that has a sour disposition and is always ready to growl and "kick" should go up some dark alley and kick himself or get some one to accommodate him with a club.

In reply to the East Fork correspondent we will say that H. B. Armitage, our fertilizer agent, has formerly established a coal factory and will be able to supply the demand.

Married, March 31st, Mr. Walter Griggs to Miss Lizzie, the pretty and industrious daughter of George Program, Elder J. W. Blevins officiating. We wish them a long and happy life.

Prof. E. C. Kimbrell, the irrepresible, on route to his home in Montgomery county stopped at his friend John Carrington's, where he met "South Side" and there was a hot time in the old town that night, you know.

We are told of a certain couple that are to marry today, but as we do not know it to be a fact we will not call names. We, however, expect to receive a bountiful supply of cake. We might send you a small slice, Mr. Editor.

Elder James Moore is past 92 years old and claims that he can do more work now than half the young men. We believe that is all true and think that when we are as old as Uncle Jimmie we will hardly be able to sit in a reclining chair.

The Spanish discovered our country in 1492. They left us a poor and helpless nation. It seems as if they think we are such yet. If they should attempt to invade our coast Uncle Sam might be a larger hog than they represent him in their papers.

It would be no trick at all to organize a whole regiment of fighting chaplains in South Side. There is hardly a preacher in the neighborhood who would not rather take a crack at Spain than to keep up the dreary old war on the run power.

We were recently informed that the South Side women would form an infantry company to go to Cuba. If the infantry company makes no better display when arrayed in military bloomers than the painfully large number of bicycle females the Spanish soldiers had better begin to practice at broomsticks.

Married, Mr. James McClain to Miss Ollie Wills. The bride is the beautiful and accomplished daughter of Wash Wills, and the bridegroom is the handsome and popular son of Warrick McClain. Elder Wes Blevins, in a neat little speech, performed the ceremony that makes two hearts flutter as one. After the ceremony, accompanied by the attendants, Miss Belle McClain and Steve Warner, they returned to the home of the father of the groom, where a reception was given. We extend to Mr. and Mrs. McClain our congratulations.

Sensational preachers now insist that the whole country is going to hades because people no longer attend church regularly as they once did. It is not a hard matter to account for this seeming lack of Christian devotion. In olden times people went to church to hear the Gospel preached. That is the very last thing sensational preachers think of doing. They find it a much easier matter to prepare sermons on base ball, bicycling, and things of that kind than to go into the Sacred Scriptures for a text. Such sermons are not calculated to renew Christian vigor and are not looked upon kindly by those who have a desire to travel the straight and narrow way. It's not the people who are going to the devil—it's the sensationalism.

There seems to be a difference of opinion here in regard to the tobacco plants; some claim they are not hurt, others that they are all killed or will die.

Mr. Editor, is there not a law to prohibit persons from turning stock on the public highway. If there is not there "ortobe."

[Not a general law, we believe.—Ed.]

The report of a case of small-pox at Mt. Sterling on Friday evening caused some excitement and the town was quarantined for several hours, but it proved to be a case of chicken-pox.

C. W. Durham and little son Ditzler have returned from Louisville, where the latter was treated by Dr. Parsons for stammering. We believe he is cured; at least he is greatly benefited.

Clarence Kosh was home for Easter holiday.

The rain and snow have set back corn planting and gardening some days longer.
